

Biona's Packaging policy

Making positive choices for the planet is at the core of our mission. It influences everything from the Organic farms where our food grows to the sustainable manufacture of our products and our commitment to zero waste.

With packaging, whether it is the food container or packaging used in the supply chain, we are working towards our goal for all our packaging to be reusable, recyclable, or compostable by 2025.

We work with our suppliers to ensure that all our packaging meets strict environmental and social standards, from the cardboard we use to the ink that's printed on it.

A large proportion of our products are packaged in either glass or metal cans – both 100% recyclable. Recently, we moved all of our rice products from plastic foil to recyclable paper. Many of our pasta lines are also now in paper packaging.

Each year, we engage in new projects to improve our sustainability performance and protect our earth's precious resources. Your health and that of our shared planet, is our concern.
